Objective

I am a self taught designer & developer but I never thought I would be. My start was on the business side in economics.

After my second failed startup I knew that envisioning and designing a product on paper wasn't good enough for me. I wanted to understand every aspect of its development. So I did just that. I started to learn and create products of my own.

I design completely from scratch, no framework so I can implement almost anything I can imagine. Which also means my work is lean, fast & efficient. My specialty is creating beautiful, empathetic and ergonomic UI & UX.

I changed my career, took this risk, because I love what I do. And if your reading this I want to do it for you.
